whether Government have announced several amendments in the Foreign Trade Policy 2004—2009;

if so, the details thereof, and the benefits to accrue to different segments of the economy?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY (SHRI JAIRAM RAMESH): (a) Yes Sir, on April 7th 2006, Government announced a number of initiatives through the second Annual Supplement within the overall frame work of the Foreign Trade Policy 2004—09.

(b) Electronic copies of the Annual Supplement and the Foreign Trade Policy are available on the DGFT web-site and can be accessed at http://www.dgft.gov.in/. Copies of these documents are also available in the Parliament Library. Following are the key highlights of the new initiatives:

(i) Focus products and focus market schemes introduced to promote exports of products having large employment potential and penetration of strategic markets by Indian products.

(ii) The export of village and cottage industries products have been incentivised by including these products in the Vishesh Krishi and Gram Udyog Yojana.

(iii) A new Duty Neutralize Scheme called duty free import authorisation scheme has been introduced with the primary objective reducing working capital requirements of exporters who import most of their inputs.

(iv) A number of features have been introduced in the Served from India Scheme to promote Service Exports.

(v) A number of initiatives have been taken to facilitate emergence of India as Gems & Jewellery hub.

(c) Enhancing the competitiveness of Indian exports and generating additional units of employment are the two important themes of Foreign Trade Policy. Since exports have become an important part of Indian economy, high productivity and competitiveness in export sector will benefit the entire economy.
